

003. The Psychology of Money

by Morgan Housel

5 Core Concepts — Quote-Style Paraphrases

1. “Financial decisions are shaped by personal experiences, emotions, and circumstances—not just mathematical logic.”
2. “Building wealth is different from displaying wealth: wealth is often the money you do not spend.”
3. “Compounding rewards patience; avoiding catastrophic mistakes can matter more than chasing spectacular returns.”
4. “A strong financial plan should leave room for uncertainty, because the future rarely behaves exactly as expected.”
5. “The goal of money is greater control over your time and choices, not simply a larger number in an account.”
