Why read this?

- You keep starting habits but lose them by week three
- You want systems instead of motivation
- You want change that compounds, not change that burns out

What you will learn

- ✓ Design an environment that makes good habits obvious
- ✓ Apply the four laws of behaviour change

Access

Levels 1-7 are included with Starter. Audio and video levels need Premium.

Compare plans

Readers also learn

Deep Work

CHAPTERS

- ✓ The Surprising Power of Tiny Gains
- ✓ Identity Beats Outcomes
- 3 The Four Laws of Behaviour Change
- 4 Make It Obvious
- 5 Make It Attractive
- 6 Make It Easy
- 7 Make It Satisfying
- 8 Advanced Tactics: Plateau of Latent Potential

CHAPTER 3 · BIG IDEA

Habits are votes for the person you are becoming

Outcome goals describe the destination. Systems describe the road. When James Clear separates the two, the argument is not that goals are useless — it is that goals are a terrible steering mechanism. You do not rise to the level of your goals; you fall to the level of your systems.

VISUAL FRAMEWORK

The four laws of behaviour change

1ST LAW · CUE

Make it obvious

Break it: Make it invisible

2ND LAW · CRAVING

Make it attractive

Break it: Make it unattractive

3RD LAW · RESPONSE

Make it easy

Break it: Make it difficult

4TH LAW · REWARD

Make it satisfying

Break it: Make it unsatisfying

Explanation

Every habit runs through a four-step loop: cue, craving, response, reward. The loop is not a metaphor — it is the sequence your brain uses to convert repeated behaviour into automatic behaviour. Change any one step and the entire habit changes with it.

Ask GrowVio AI

Ask anything about this chapter. Answers stay grounded in the book.

Explain the 4 laws in one line each

Give me an example for my job

Quiz me on this chapter

Ask a question...

My notes

"Two-minute rule" → use for the gym on travel weeks.

Highlighted: systems > goals.
